A new continued story commences in this issue of the Review under the title of "In Luck at Last." The author Walter Besant, is a popular, entertaining novelist and the story is certain to meet the tastes of all lovers of light literature. Be sure and read it and tell your neighbors about it.

Fred W. Gray, of Decatur, made his father a pleasant visit on last Saturday and remained until Monday morning. He is attending school in the first ward and in the 7th grade. He made several calls while here among his old and young friends. He formerly was a typo on the Independent. We were glad to meet him. —Macon Independent.

The present revival at the Methodist church has been one of great interest and success. Thus far 250 conversions have been made and up to the present date 138 persons have united with the church. Mr. Potter will in all probability close his work here next Sunday, and it is expected that Bishop S. M. Morrill will be at the jubilee service on next Sunday.

The Illinois Press Association meets at Jacksonville this week for a three days' session. Members will be in attendance from all corners of the state, and a pleasant meeting is anticipated as the citizens of Jacksonville will endeavor to please the journalists, and will expect the editors to write them and their towns up on their return home. Decatur will not be represented at the meeting.

R. L. Perry esq. will sell at his farm, four miles northwest of Decatur, on Thursday, February 26th, two span of good young mules, well broken; a span of fine young mares; five milch cows, and about twenty head of young cattle; forty head of hogs, including brood sows and pigs; a lot of chickens; two farm wagons, and a large stock of agricultural and farm implements and machinery.

The Bloomington Pantagraph says: "William House, Jr., stage manager of the 'Lights of London' company, who played here last Thursday night at Rockford, Ill., suddenly on Wednesday night, of heart disease. He was a son of Francis Denham House, the Mrs. Jarvis of the company. The manager sent a New York City, his brother Mr. House was on the boards at Bloomington on the evening preceding his death."

For the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1884, the expense of conducting the state charitable institutions of this state summed up a total of $223,155.00, as follows: Northern insane hospital, $26,371.05; eastern insane hospital, $45,337.83; central insane hospital, $32,193.13; institution for deaf and dumb, $28,261.34; for blind, $9,515.91; feeble minded, $17,550.68; soldiers' orphans' home, $15,251.57; charitable eye and ear infirmary, $4,683.33; state reform school, $14,105.33.

The following extract from the Macon Independent's article on "Early Recollections of Macon County," will prove interesting: "I will conclude my article by relating how Illinois came to be called the 'sucker state.' In earlier days there were no wells or streams on the flat prairie. Cattle holes were plenty, however, and the prairie breakers, when seized with thirst would insert a hollow grass and suck up the water. This is how the inhabitants came to be termed 'suckers,' but drinking and tilling have done away with surface water."

The Taylorville Democrat of this week, before knowing of the action of the state board, says: "Dona Springfield and Peoria are working diligently to secure the state for the next two years. We would like to see it located permanently at Springfield or Decatur, believing that it would be better for an association than to be changing from place to place every two years." This seems to be the general feeling throughout Central Illinois, but the state fair is no longer an agricultural and stock show. It has been turned into a side show for the Chicago exposition, and farmers would do well to devote their attention to county fairs instead of attempting to make a success of a thing that is no longer maintained for their benefit.

Things have reached a focus on the Wabash, and from now on it will be war to the knife between the conductors and odious "spotters." It will be remembered that a few weeks ago Conductor Caraban "dove up" two spotters at Danville, and now Tom Whalen, of the Chicago division is said to have been forced to punish one of them. The Lafayette Courier gives the following account of the affair: "Conductor Tom Whalen had an altercation with his spotter, one McGrath. McGrath went back to the rear of the train and returned with a revolver in his hand and blood in his eye. He threatened the former and winked, and winked his eyes at a furious rate, gesticulating violently and vociferating volubly that no black and white conductor could come to ever him. Whalen, thinking his remarks personal, took the revolver away from him and was proceeding to wipe up the floor in the latest approved a la Caraban style, when the passengers intervened and rescued the thoroughly frightened spotter. Conductor Whalen promptly telegraphed his resignation."

Lotta as Mam'zelle Nitchouche.

An actress of recognized ability has never yet failed to draw well in Decatur, and Lotta was no exception to the rule last evening, when she appeared in the new play "Mam'zelle Nitchouche." It was a "standing room only" night down stairs, while the gallery was comfortably filled. The play was a pleasant little farce comedy, full of puns, good acting and fine singing. Commence on Lotta's acting is entirely unnecessary. She is a sparkling gem in the higher and more refined school of comedy and seems to live the part she assumes. After viewing the modern style of comedy that fills the stage, it is indeed a pleasure and relief to see Lotta. Her support was excellent and she received several hearty encores to which she gracefully responded. The bass solo of Fredrick Darrell was a fine feature, and he received a hearty recall. It was the theatrical treat of the season, and Manager Haines is entitled to much credit and the thanks of the audience for loving people for securing so fine an attraction.

The Baptist Revival.

The Baptist church has cause for rejoicing. For six weeks they have held meetings constantly with most gratifying results. About fifty have been converted. They have already been baptized in this evening eleven more are to be baptized making forty-two in all, and still the good work goes on. The church was filled on Friday night by a large and deeply interested congregation. At the close of the sermon Dr. Vosburgh gave an invitation to rise for prayers, which was responded to by quite a number. Eleven persons were received into the church, ten of whom were men or boys and one girl about 15 years of age. Dr. Vosburgh preaches at both services to-day.

(By Mrs. L. C. Seitz.)

At our Gospel Temperance meeting last Sabbath much interest was manifested. Several requests for prayer were presented, and we think all who attended realized more than ever the importance of this department of our work, and the blessed results that will surely follow earnest and faithful labor in this direction. Good tidings are coming to us from the meetings from all over our country. Many discouraged ones have been encouraged into a new life. Many times have tried with their own strength and by their own will to overcome the drink habit, and many times failed, have been led to put their trust in "One who is strong, and able to deliver," and thus rescued from eternal death, and are now free men rejoicing in hope of eternal life, and happy families around them. When we know that "no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven," and when we realize the value of the immortal soul, shall we not put forth every effort possible to "rescue the perishing" and "lift up fallen." Let us have a full attendance of our christian people. And we cordially and earnestly invite all who are battling against sin and desire to lead a new life to come and we will do you good. A beautiful memorial is being decorated with the white ribbon, is going to congress for the National W. C. T. U. Let prayer that such well informed work a loss, "the United States congress will remove the political disabilities of women by submitting a sixteenth amendment to the national constitution, prohibiting the discrimination of any citizen on the ground of sex. It is signed by the five grand officers, and by Mrs. Gov. Wallace the superintendent, and Mrs. Henrietta B. Wall, the secretary of the department of franchise.

In Luck at Last.

We commence to-day the publication of a very interesting serial story, with the above title, from the pen of Mr. Walter Besant, a popular novelist. We think it worthy a place in the Review, and hope it will prove acceptable to our readers, for whose instruction and entertainment it is our pleasure to cater.

Pay and Look Pleasant.
